S linguatrip

TOP 30 PHRASAL VERBS BY LINGUATRIP

to get up — same as to stand up. Could also have a meaning of getting out of bed after waking up

I have to get up really early in the morning on working days. Sir, please, get up and leave. (= stand up) to get out — to leave a closed space, vehicle, building, etc

We need to get out of this building now! It's about to collapse!

to go on — to continue

The show must go on!

to look for — to search for something

I'm looking for my glasses, have you seen them?

 ${f to}\ {f try}\ {f out}$ — to see how good, useful or effective something is

I'd gladly try out some exotic dishes, but I'm afraid for my stomach.

to find out — to discover something, for example some truth or a fact I've only recently found out that dolphins are actually mammals.

to fill in (US: to fill out) — to write or type information on a document in spaces that are provided for it

You need to fill in the gaps in this task.

Every foreigner who wants to get a visa must fill out a lot of papers first.

to break down — to stop working / functioning

The car broke down and we couldn't reach the meeting on time.

to call off — to cancel something

I had to call off the meeting because I felt like staying home in my warm bed.

 ${f to \ keep \ on -} \ {f to \ continue \ doing \ something}$

Keep on learning English every day and you'll reach Advanced level.

to get along — when you like each other and are friendly to each other My brother and I get on along really nicely, we never argue.

to grow up — to become older

Children tend to grow up so fast these days!

to bring up — to look after a child until he or she becomes an adult

My grandma brought me up almost alone, because my parents used to work a lot.

to come across — 1) to seem like something

2) to unexpectedly see something or meet someone

You come across as a very intelligent person, I must admit.

I came across this wonderful jazz album yesterday, wanna listen?

to hang on — to wait

Could you just hang on while I'm finishing this task?

to put up with — to tolerate something

I can't put up with it any longer.

to show off — to behave in a way that is intended to attract attention or admiration

He really can't stop showing off his new car, can he?

to watch out — to be careful

Hey, watch out! This floor is so slippery, I almost fell.

to work out — to exercise, do sports

I work out at 6 am every day to feel energized.

to eat out — to eat at a restaurant or a cafe, anywhere but at home Can we eat out today? I'm not in the mood for cooking anything.

to break up — to end a romantic relationship

Mike and Kendra broke up 6 years ago but he still calls her from time to time.

to turn out (to be) — to happen in a particular way or to have a particular result

The scary noises I could hear at night turned out to be just owls on my roof.

to go out — 1) to leave your house and go somewhere, especially to do something enjoyable

2) to go on a date with someone

We were meant to go out on Friday but she couldn't make it.

to let someone down — to disappoint someone by failing to do what you promised

The singer didn't want to let down his fans by cancelling the concert.

to hang out — to spend time with someone (like friends)

We decided to stay home and just hang out, watch the move to cut back on something — to use or consume less of something You know, you might want to cut back on the caffeine. For your own health, hun.

We decided to stay home and just hang out, watch the movies, order sushi and drinks.

to run out of something — to have none left

I realized that we had run out of popcorn and the movie evening was kinda ruined.

to chip in — if people chip in, they each give some money to help pay for something

We can only afford this present for Josh if we all chip in.

to come over — to visit someone as a guest

Hey, come over some time later, I have pizza in the fridge and we can hang out.

to dress up — to wear nice clothes for a special event

Jane had to go home and change her clothes, she needed to dress up nicely for a party.

to end up — to reach a particular place or achieve a situation after other activities

It's always sad when someone in a relationship ends up with a broken heart.